Bring up a wine	“Ask wineryIQ to bring up a wine”
Wineries near you	“Show me wineries near me in wineryIQ”
Look through your wine labels	“Show me my wine labels in wineryIQ”
Add a bottle	“Add a bottle in wineryIQ”
Will I like it?	“Ask wineryIQ if I'll like this wine”

About my cellar	“Ask wineryIQ how many bottles I have”
Ask about my cellar	“Ask wineryIQ about my cellar”
Save a winery	“Add a winery to my favorites in wineryIQ”

There is nothing to set up. These work the moment the app is installed — no shortcut to build, nothing to configure. Just open wineryIQ once first, so your phone has seen it run.

On iOS 27, just ask

With Apple Intelligence on iOS 27, Siri understands what you mean instead of matching a phrase. Begin with “Ask wineryIQ...” or “Search wineryIQ for...” and say the rest your own way, all in one breath — Siri asks no follow-up question there, so name the winery or the wine as you ask. wineryIQ opens and shows the answer: a winery’s page, or a card answering a question about your cellar or whether you will like a wine.

“Search wineryIQ for Brady Cellars” · “Ask wineryIQ how many bottles I have” · “Ask wineryIQ if I have any wines from Napa” · “Ask wineryIQ if I'll like a Pinot Noir”

On iOS 26 and earlier

Say the phrase as it is written below. Siri matches these closely, so a wording it has not been taught comes back as “I don't understand” even though the feature works. The phrases are in English in every language, because that is how the app registers them.

1. Look up a winery

Opens the winery you name, straight to its page — hours, address, phone and website. Name a region instead and you get the list of results to browse.

“Search for a winery in wineryIQ”

Siri asks “Which winery?” — just answer out loud.

You Search for a winery in wineryIQ

Siri Which winery?

You Brady Cellars

wineryIQ opens on Brady Cellars.

Also works: “Ask wineryIQ to bring up a winery” · “Ask wineryIQ to show me a winery” · “Ask wineryIQ to find a winery” · “Ask wineryIQ about a winery” · “Bring up a winery in wineryIQ” · “Show me a winery in wineryIQ” · “Pull up a winery in wineryIQ” · “Search wineryIQ” · “Search wineryIQ for wineries” · “Search for a winery with wineryIQ” · “Search for wineries in wineryIQ” · “Search for a winery on wineryIQ” · “Find a winery with wineryIQ” · “Find a winery in wineryIQ” · “Look up a winery in wineryIQ” · “Look up a winery with wineryIQ”

2. Bring up a wine

Opens the page for one bottle in your cellar — its label, your notes and rating, the winery, the forecast. Say the producer, or the grape and the year; if you have several from one producer it opens the newest and tells you others came close. If it is not in your cellar, it says so rather than opening the wrong bottle.

“Ask wineryIQ to bring up a wine”

Siri asks “Which wine?” — just answer out loud.

3. Wineries near you

Opens wineryIQ on the wineries around you, without asking anything first. The one to use while driving.

wineryIQ opens on Near Me.

Also works: “Show wineries near me in wineryIQ” · “Wineries near me in wineryIQ” · “Find wineries near me in wineryIQ” · “What wineries are near me in wineryIQ”

4. Look through your wine labels

Shows the wine labels you have photographed from one winery, full screen. Swipe between them; tap Done to leave. Where you also photographed the back of the bottle, a button flips to it. Say “wine labels” rather than just “labels” — Wallet answers to that one too.

“Show me my wine labels in wineryIQ”

Siri asks “Which winery's labels?” — just answer out loud.

6. Will I like it?

Answers out loud, without opening the app: whether you will probably like a grape or a style, about how many glasses, how confident it is, and why — from your own ratings. Name a grape, or say red, white, rosé or sparkling. Asking does not record anything.

“Ask wineryIQ if I'll like this wine”

Siri asks “Which wine? Say a grape, or red, white, rosé or sparkling.” — just answer out loud.

You Ask wineryIQ if I'll like this wine
Siri Which wine? Say a grape, or red, white, rosé or sparkling.
You Pinot Noir
Siri You'll probably like a Pinot Noir: about four out of five glasses. Medium confidence, 70 percent. It's close to wines you rated highly.

Also works: “Ask wineryIQ if I will like this wine” · “Ask wineryIQ if I'll like a wine” · “Will I like this wine in wineryIQ” · “Will I like this wine with wineryIQ” · “Will I like a wine in wineryIQ” · “Will I like it in wineryIQ” · “Would I like this wine in wineryIQ” · “Would I like a wine in wineryIQ” · “Do I like this wine in wineryIQ” · “Ask wineryIQ if I would like a wine” · “Ask wineryIQ will I like this wine” · “Forecast a wine in wineryIQ” · “Forecast a wine with wineryIQ” · “Should I order this wine in wineryIQ”

7. Which wine should I pick?

With a wine list on screen — My Cellar, Insights, Photograph a Wine List — Siri reads wineryIQ's own ranking and tells you the one you are most likely to enjoy, and a second if there is one. If nothing on the list suits you, it says so.

“Ask wineryIQ which wine I should pick”

You Ask wineryIQ which wine I should pick

Siri I'd pick the Shafer Cabernet Sauvignon. You'll probably like it: about four and a half out of five glasses, 75 percent confidence.

Also works: “Ask wineryIQ which wine I'd like most” · “Ask wineryIQ which wine I would like most” · “Ask wineryIQ which wine I'd like best” · “Ask wineryIQ which wine I'll like” · “Use wineryIQ to tell me which wine I'd like most” · “Use wineryIQ to tell me which wine to pick” · “Use wineryIQ to pick a wine” · “Ask wineryIQ which wine to pick” · “Ask wineryIQ which wine to order” · “Ask wineryIQ what I should order” · “Which wine should I pick in wineryIQ” · “Which wine should I pick with wineryIQ” · “Which wine should I choose in wineryIQ” · “Which wine should I order in wineryIQ” · “Which wine should I get in wineryIQ” · “Which wine will I like in wineryIQ” · “What wine should I pick in wineryIQ” · “What wine should I order in wineryIQ” · “What should I order in wineryIQ” · “Pick a wine for me in wineryIQ” · “Pick a wine for me with wineryIQ”

8. About my cellar

Answers in one breath, without opening the app: how many bottles you have and what they mostly are, your best bottles, the last ones you added, or the ones still waiting for a rating.

“Ask wineryIQ how many bottles I have”

You Ask wineryIQ how many bottles I have

Siri You have forty-two bottles in your cellar. Mostly Cabernet Sauvignon, Syrah and Merlot. Twenty-seven are rated.

Also works: “Ask wineryIQ how many bottles are in my cellar” · “Ask wineryIQ how big my cellar is” · “How many bottles do I have in my cellar in wineryIQ” · “How many bottles do I have in wineryIQ” · “How many bottles are in my wineryIQ cellar” · “How many wines do I have in wineryIQ”

9. Ask about my cellar

For anything else about your bottles. Siri asks what you want to know, and you can put it your own way: a grape, a place, a producer, your best. Ask for a grape and a place together and you get both counts. It answers only from what is in your cellar, so “nothing from Tuscany yet” is an answer too.

“Ask wineryIQ about my cellar”

Siri asks “What would you like to know about your cellar?” — just answer out loud.

You Ask wineryIQ about my cellar
Siri What would you like to know about your cellar?
You How many Cabernets do I have, and how many are from Walla Walla?
Siri You have four Cabernet Sauvignon bottles in total. One of them is from Walla Walla.

10. Save a winery

Adds a winery to your Favorites without opening the app — useful when somebody mentions one and your hands are busy.

“Add a winery to my favorites in wineryIQ”

Siri asks “Which winery?” — just answer out loud.

You Add a winery to my favorites in wineryIQ

You Brady Cellars

Also works: “Add a winery in wineryIQ” · “Add a winery with wineryIQ” · “Add a winery to my favorites with wineryIQ” · “Save a winery in wineryIQ” · “Save a winery to my favorites in wineryIQ”

If Siri doesn't understand

Say the phrase exactly as printed. The usual cause is a small rewording. If it still will not, open the app once and try again — iOS can take a minute to notice a newly installed app's phrases.

If it cannot find the winery

It will say so, and name what it heard. That is deliberate: guessing once meant quietly saving the wrong winery while reporting success. Names are matched by sound as well as spelling, so ordinary mis-hearings still land. If what you said fits several wineries equally well, it asks again rather than guessing.

Building your own shortcuts wineryIQ's actions appear in the Shortcuts app too, so you can combine them with anything else your phone does. One extra action lives there that has no spoken phrase of its own:

Find Wineries

Searches the wineryIQ catalog and returns matching wineries without opening the app.

Open wineryIQ Screen

Opens wineryIQ on a specific screen, like Near Me or My Cellar.
